Building the digital world for today, and the future.

At Fetch.AI I am leading our business development program, strategic alliances and collaboration with industry as well as academia. Currently working on implementation of new state-of-the-art ICT applications using AI, machine learning, blockchain and distributed ledger technologies.

Previously worked at Oracle and at Europe's e-infrastructure GEANT, collaborated with flagship pan-European research groups and e-infrastructures, leading international teams.

Always interested in helping to solve great challenges and bring value to clients and organisations.
