

A woman with long, wavy brown hair is shown in profile, facing right. She is holding a black microphone close to her mouth and appears to be speaking. The background is blurred, showing what looks like an indoor setting with warm lighting.

CAROLINE LAIR

---

Caroline Lair is the co-founder of Women in AI, a non profit aiming at reducing the gender gap in AI. She's also part of the business team at Snips, building the next generation of blockchain-based AI Voice Assistant. Prior to joining Snips, Caroline did operate in various business development positions at Apple, Nik Software and joined Hardware Club investment firm as an investor and partner. In 2018, She was nominated for the FiftyInspiring awards in France. Caroline hold two master's degrees in business and international relations.

@ca_lair
womeninai.co